Her comments came in response to claims from the Ministry of Finance (MoF) that the cabinet has approved the issuance of State Bank of Indonesia (Lembaga Bpkt) inflation targeting bond (LITB) which will be used to finance infrastructure projects. According to MoF, the issuance will be similar to the Fed Targeting System (FTS) policy which all central banks around the world currently use. "The State Bank of Indonesia is expected to set a benchmark for inflation targeting. We will follow the FTS," Sri Mulyani said at a press conference at the MoF headquarters in Jakarta on Thursday. Taking the helm of the CB in late 2014, Sri Mulyani has so far sought to make the central bank more independent of political influence. The State-owned central bank has faced opposition recently from the Minister of Finance, Sri Mulyani, who has called on the bank to apply targeting instead. "The independence of the CB is important because it will lead the CB to be a banker, and this is because the CB will be in charge of the economic sector," she said. Sri Mulyani has insisted on the need for the CB to become independent. "We must not give the CB a function which is considered as a responsibility of the central government, such as the issuance of the monetary policy. The CB is expected to remain a central bank to provide services for the economy, but not to execute the monetary policy," she said. The CB has been criticized for its lagging inflation target that was set as 5 percent instead of the 2-4 percent target set by the IMF. In her comments on Thursday, Sri Mulyani said she understands concerns from the public, as well as from the business sector, about the
